After their thrilling semifinal win over Italy, Turkey had little time to celebrate. The first half of their final against USA 3 Levine was quiet, but there was one dramatic deal:

I wonder if West intended his 3♥ as a transfer to clubs? Then, perhaps placing his partner with five spades he went for the game bonus.

South led the ♦3 and declarer won with the queen and played a spade to the king, South's discard of the ♥6 being a body blow. When the king was allowed to hold declarer played on clubs, North ruffing the third round with the ♠5 and declarer overruffing with the six. He managed just one more trick, five down, -500 and a 15 IMP loss that saw Turkey take the set 21-17.

North led the ♠5 for the jack and king and declarer played a heart for the six, queen and king. Back came the ♠2 and declarer cashed the ♠KQ pitching a diamond from dummy. The ♣4 went for the seven, jack and queen and South returned the ♥9. Declarer won with the ace, cashed the top clubs and exited with a club. If South was 3244 he would have to play a diamond, but when he produced the ♥8 the contract was one down, -50 and 10 IMPs.

Double dummy, declarer can get home – after drawing trumps he cashes the ♥A and exits with the four. If South wins he is endplayed and if North tries a crocodile coup by rising with the ♥J and exiting with a heart declarer wins and can play a club to dummy's eight.

Another interesting possibility is that declarer starts with five rounds of spades - that puts a lot of pressure on South. If declarer reads the position he can even score an overtrick.

Turkey had won this session 31-13 increasing their lead to 52-30. Were they on a march to victory?

North led the ♥K and when South followed with the jack North had to assume it was from a doubleton, otherwise defensive prospects were poor. Assuming South held a second heart could he have an entry? If so, which minor suit was the better bet? If South has say four diamonds and three clubs, does that affect a decision about the suit in which he is more likely to hold an ace? When North went with the ♣7 South won with the king and the heart return meant the contract was five down, -500 and Turkey had 7 IMPs. Had North switched to a diamond would declarer have won in dummy and played a spade to the ten?

15 IMPs down, with only three boards to play USA 3 LEVINE needed swings, but the next two deals offered no scope so the 11 IMPs they gained on the final deal when TURKEY bid a slam with three diamond losers was not enough.

Bisogna saper perdere*

Ruggero Pulga

That was the title of an old song in the hippies times, but it perfectly fits the story of our Semifinal versus Turkey. Be assured that when you lose a 48 boards match by 1 IMP the multitude of lost opportunities does not let you sleep at night. Every little decision could have made a difference. Being aware that you have faced a team able to play nearly perfect bridge does not comfort you. My teammates and me are not going to forget those last 12 boards any time soon.

But let's see our confessions...

Board 3. Dealer South, EW vulnerable.

2♦ – majors.

South led the six of hearts. Plan your play in East's seat.

If North has 2 clubs and 1 diamond, declarer could make 3NT by simply finessing the king of clubs. He could let South take the third round of clubs. Then the defence can only cash three more tricks and finessing the queen of diamonds would be safe. On the other hand, giving North the chance to take with the 10 or the jack of clubs could be fatal, since N/S could immediately cash four hearts tricks and a spade: South could have the nine of hearts, or the defence could force one of dummy's spade honours. In such situation, declarer would be able to play from the hand just once (thanks to the king of diamonds), so he would not be able to score more than 8 tricks.

If North has 1 club and 2 diamonds, there is a 50% chance that North has either a singleton 10 of clubs or a singleton jack of clubs and that we fall in the same situation already described above. But even if North's singleton is a low card that should not be enough. In fact, once declarer wins with the nine of clubs he needs to cross to hand with the king of diamonds in order to finesse the king of clubs again. Now he has no entries left to finesse the queen of diamonds and he can only hope for Qx. Avcioglu, sitting East, took the lead with the ace of hearts and played a low club to the nine, hoping for J10x in site. Then he continued with a low club from dummy. South took and played a small spade to dummy's king, which held.

*A famous Italian song released in 1967. The title means: 'You need to know how to deal with losing'

Declarer crossed to hand with the king of diamonds, finessed the king of clubs and, since he could not afford to give North the possibility to cash his tricks, he tried to cash the ace of diamonds, on which North dropped the queen. This was the layout:

Try to bid with North/South's cards (opponents always pass) – rotated for convenience:

The bidding in the other room:

W	N	E	S
Mina	Ali Ince	Pulga	Kokten
pass	1♥	pass	2♦
pass	2♥	pass	3♦
pass	3NT	all pass

On an obvious spades lead, 3NT needs spades to be split 4-4 and diamonds to be split 3-2 with the ace of diamonds in East to make. That is about a 12% chance of success. The alternative 4 Hearts needs hearts 3-3 and diamonds 3-2. And this is already a 24% chance of success, plus a few extra chances if hearts are 4-2. But the actual layout castigates the 3NT traitors.

Board 9 was another situation where the bidding made the difference. This was the layout:

Board 9/IV North/EW	♠ 72	N	E
	♥ Q53
	♦ 643	W	S
	♣ QJ764
♠ Q9			♠ KJ1063

♦ KJ1052			♦ 8
♣ 103			♣ A8
	♠ A854

The bidding at both tables:

W	N	E	S
Mina	Ali Ince	Pulga	Kokten

W	N	E	S
Zorlu	Comella	Avcioglu	Sabbatini
	pass	pass	1♣
1♦	pass	1♠	pass
pass	2♣	2♥	3♣
3♥	all pass

On a diamonds lead, and especially on a queen of clubs lead, 1NT cannot be made.

After Ali Ince's 1♥ response (with three cards) and my 1 Spade overcall, 1NT shows a strong pass with diamonds (given my initial pass). But it actually complicates the bidding. From West's point of view, East should have a two-suited hand (spades and clubs), while East thinks that West has a two-suited hand with the minors.

Both East and West can not imagine that they may have such a good heart fit. In the other room, Comella, on the Zorlu's 1♦ overcall after the different opening bid 1♣, obviously did not bid 1♥ with just three cards. That meant another swing for our opponents.

With three boards to go, we were still leading by 1 IMP, when we got a last and small (but big enough) slap.

Board 11. Love all, dealer South.

The bidding:

W	N	E	S
Zorlu	Comella	Avcioglu	Sabbatini
			pass
1♥	1♠	2♦	pass
2♥	2♠	3NT	all pass

A club lead would have defeated the contract, but at both tables South led the king of spade and when it held he continued with a small spade. Now imagine sitting North. Once you take with the ace of spades, what would you play?

Board 11/IV South/None	♠ AJ10975	N	E

	♦ –	W	S
	♣ AK10
♠ 83
♥ AKQ95

♣ QJ84
	♠ K2

If, like Comella, you thought about playing another spade hoping for a diamonds' stopper in your partner's hand, you lost the match. In truth that would have been a very realistic chance. For instance, if your partner has the queen of diamonds, playing a small spade at trick three is a winning line for the defence. East could have bid an adventurous 3NT from something like ♠ Qxx ♥ x ♦ AK10xxx ♣ xxx.

Still, if East had ♦ AKQxx (which would perfectly fit his bid), South holding the ten fifth in diamonds would be enough to prevent East from setting the suit. But since this analysis has not been completed yet, I invite you to specify what would you discard as North on the fourth diamond (after one club and two spades). This would be the position:

♥ J764
♣ AK
♠ AKQ9
♦ QJ
	N E
	W S

In truth you would find yourself victim of a strip squeeze only if East has the ten of hearts and, even in that case, only if he is able to understand the whole situation, eventually unblock hearts, and endplay you. In any other situation you do not want to risk to give declarer the possibility to make his game just to avoid potential overtricks. I said 'potential' because overtricks can be made only if East has at least six top diamonds. After cashing the ace of spades and the king of spades Ali Ince cashed also the king and the ace of clubs. In the other room Comella played a low spade in order to set the suit. But this was the layout:

The Turkish declarer scored 11 tricks, while the Italian one only 9 tricks. That meant a two IMPs difference. A small swing that was proved to be determining: from +1 we went to -1.

Tonči Radelja Memorial - BBO Intercity League.

XXXV edition, spring 2021. 3rd March – 2nd June 2021

When: On Wednesday at 21.00 Central Europe Time (New York -6; London -1), from 3rd March to 2nd June. Resting day on 21st April.

Who: Teams. Entry fee: Free. Prizes: Our fun and the Opponents' esteem for our sportsmanship.

Full information and Rules:

<https://neapolitanclub.altervista.org/eng/tonci-radelja-memorial-bbo-intercity-league.html>

Email: Paolo Enrico Garrisi: turbinazione@gmail.com

In brief:

The Tonči Radelja Memorial – ICL is the international online team championship established in 2004 by the late Tonči Radelja, a Croatian professor of mathematics who loved the Bridge and used it as a medium to become friends. So wrote Tonči several years ago:

„Think of this as a night in your local club: be friendly and enjoy meeting old/new friends at the table”.

Thereby, being friendly to our partner and to opponents is the first and most important victory we can get.

For the registration it suffices to send:

- The name of the team. It must be the name of a town, no matter how small.
- The name of the captain (BBO's and real name), and his email.

In the last edition, Fall 2020, eighty-eight teams have played from twenty-nine countries in Europe and Africa.

There aren't limits to the number of players per team (but read the rules). The Captain will be responsible for his players and has to guarantee that all them have read the rules, especially the System Policy and the Anti-cheating policy paragraphs.
